Dear Mr. Bridges,

Pursuant to your request a polygraph examination was given to the above named individual on November 8, 2018. The Air Force technique and five-channel Lafayette computerized instrument in proper working order were used.

The purpose of the examination was to determine if the client has been truthful regarding an allegation of alleged inappropriate behavior.

The client is a 50 year old male and states he is in good physical health. The client is an attorney and on the Board of Director's for the Washington Bar Association. About two years ago, he was in Walla Walla, WA attending a retreat along with many other attorneys. After the meetings were over, the client went to the lounge and various other people from the conference were there. He talked to several of the individuals. After several people left the area, the client began talking with Kara Ralph. They engaged in conversation. He felt that Ms. Ralph "overshared" her sexual interests and stated that she was only dating females at that time. They walked through the lobby towards the rooms where they exchanged a hug and told each other "good night". Ms. Ralph is alleging that the client asked her to come to his room and also may have asked if he could go to her room. She states that the client told her that he was "not monogamous". The client denies these allegations.

Based on the physiological responses produced by the client on the polygraph charts, in the professional opinion of this examiner the client WAS NOT attempting deception when he answered "NO" to the following relevant questions:

- 4) Did you make any statement to Ms. Ralph about wanting or asking to go to her hotel room?
- 6) Did you ask Ms. Ralph to come to your hotel room?

Prior to the instrumentation phase of the examination all the questions were reviewed with the subject to ensure clarity and a common meaning.

I did not find any physical or emotional condition which would preclude a valid result during the pre-test interview.

Respectfully submitted,

Brooks Raymond
